I have started this article a number of different times and surprisingly am having trouble writing it. I have been president of the HPCC for the last four years, which means I have written the Letter from the President article 39 times already and have never had this issue. I guess this one is challenging because it is my last one.

After three years as a board member, three years as vice president and four years as president, I have decided to step down and give some younger leaders a chance to make a difference in the neighborhood we love. I will still be a board member for two more years and will remain on a number of committees with long-term projects underway.

I would not have stepped down if I did not have complete confidence in the newly elected president, Jake Pawlak. He has been a board member for the last three years and is well-versed in city and state government. I have worked with him for the last few years as part of the HPCC Zoning Committee, along with Scott Dietrich, the new HPCC vice president. Both Jake and Scott are smart and capable and I am looking forward to seeing what new ideas they bring to the table.

Alas, I am not the only person stepping down this month. I would like to thank Dave Atkinson, who has been my vice president for my whole term. As a board member with small children, he naturally became very interested in education and has worked tirelessly to promote our local schools and act as a liaison with Pittsburgh’s school board. And years ago, when we wanted to build a new website and start a Facebook page, he volunteered to take on the projects and still manages them today.

Kelly Vitti is also rotating off the board this month after another three-year term. Kelly has long been involved in the neighborhood in many capacities. From her original position as HPCC treasurer 16 years ago to Bryant Street Festival organizer, she has donated countless hours and seemingly limitless energy to keep Highland Park on the right track.

Last, but certainly not least, I would like to thank Bob Staresinic for all of his ongoing service to the community. He is leaving the board after more than 20 years of dedicated service, including his roles as president, vice president, board member and more recently, secretary. I first met Bob in 1997 when he came to my front door and dropped off a welcome bag from the HPCC. He was friendly and kind and I vividly recall walking back in the house in sheer amazement while telling my husband someone just officially welcomed us to the neighborhood. That simple act made me a lifelong supporter of the HPCC, and a fan of Bob.

We just completed another busy spring/summer full of HPCC events for the entire neighborhood (and beyond) to enjoy. You will soon be seeing a membership postcard in the mail reminding you to renew your HPCC membership. Please do so. Everything we do is made possible by your membership dues and donations. And it is easy to renew or join online at www.hpccpgh.org.

Once again, thank you to everyone who has made my time as HPCC president a delightful endeavor.

Monica Watt
HPCC President
Monica Watt, HPCC President, called the meeting to order at 7:04 pm with a quorum present.

Jason Lando, Zone 5 Commander, reported on recent crime activity in the zone. He reminded everyone to keep their homes and autos locked, as most of the recent crime is thefts of opportunity when items are unsecured. Commander Lando updated the group on a recent robbery on Bryant Street, where a man walking his dog was shot after refusing to turn over his wallet. The commander recommended complying with the actors’ requests, especially when confronted with a gun, and to get a good description to report to 911.

Todd Shirley announced the Off-Leash Exercise Area’s grand opening on September 11th. There will be folks there to provide chips, vaccinations and nail clippings, and the event is open to all cats and dogs.

Corey Buckner from the Mayor’s Office let the group know about upcoming opportunities in joining an LGBT advisory group, applying for the Citizens Police Academy, and getting involved in neighborhood/block watches.

Karen Manovich was nominated for a position as a Director on the HPCC Board. Elections will be held at the September 15th meeting.

Erin Potts spoke to the group about the bike share program in the City. These are the solar-powered bike stations where individuals can rent a bicycle located in 12 neighborhoods. They are looking to expand and would like feedback on where additional stations can be located.

Jessica Bowser Acrie, Career Advisor at Carnegie-Mellon University (and HPCC Director) gave a presentation about LinkedIn and how it can be best used.

Jake Pawlak spoke about the proposed amendments/updates to the HPCC bylaws, which will be voted on at the September 15th meeting.

The meeting was adjourned at 8:20 pm.

The next HPCC meeting is Thursday, October 20, 2016 at 7 p.m., at St Andrews Church, 5801 Hampton Street.
Highland Park neighbor Mary Beth Van Fleet opened the Gallery Ama earlier this summer to showcase and sell home furnishings that she has restored.

A retired nurse, Van Fleet purchased the garage two years ago and began the process of turning it into a multi-use facility. Three bays comprise the shop, while one bay is used as a workshop and the other as storage.

Van Fleet has always been artistic and a DIY fixer-upper. Her collection of tables, dressers, chairs, coffee tables, and decorative items are stunning and inspiring. She repairs, embellishes, primes and paints furniture and frequently adds decoupage to create unique looks. Map-topped bar stools and a sheet music adorned dresser are examples of practical items turned into art that can be found in the shop. Van Fleet also free hand paints scenes and images on furnishings.
Van Fleet is a true “picker” and combs neighborhoods on the eve of garbage day to see what treasures are left at the curbside. Most pieces of furniture “talk” to her and inspire her in what design and direction she will go.

Gallery Ama adds interest and color to the growing Bryant St. corridor and can be found just steps behind the north side of the street on Millbrae Way, now a destination alley.

Van Fleet had her eye on Bryant St. for some time hoping to set up a shop there. The convenience and the coming boom in the area were key attractions. A failed attempt to buy a house on Bryant St. preceded her purchase of the garage. Five new garage doors, a furnace, an exterior paint job, and cutting doorways between bays occurred in preparation for opening the shop. The bold exterior colors were chosen to attract pedestrian traffic from Bryant St.

Business has exceeded Van Fleet’s expectations, and she is relying on word of mouth and Facebook to bring visitors to the shop. Donations of old furniture are accepted at the shop or by contacting Van Fleet directly. Many times she arrives at the shop to find a table or chair left by someone hoping she can create something special. If she cannot fix or transform a piece, she will donate it to Goodwill.

“The shop is not an antique store, not a junk shop, and not an art gallery,” says Van Fleet.

“I came up with the name of Gallery Ama in an attempt to reflect what it actually is—a gallery of all three. The Ama came from my grandchildren. It is what they call me.”

Free Event Provides Access to a Collection of Iconic Buildings and Spaces, October 1 & 2

Doors Open Pittsburgh, the first-ever event of its kind in downtown Pittsburgh, provides behind-the-scenes access, or some insightful experiences, across a collection of iconic buildings and perhaps some unknown spaces – showcasing the City’s diverse architectural styles and rich heritage.

This free event, which will be held on Saturday, October 1 and Sunday, October 2, will open the doors of some of Pittsburgh’s most impressive buildings that many Pittsburghers normally would not have the opportunity to explore and experience. This is the chance for Pittsburghers to gain access to some of our city’s great landmarks, from office buildings, to private clubs, houses of worship, government offices, theaters, hotels, and residential buildings that contribute to our city’s rich architectural landscape.

“During the Doors Open Pittsburgh weekend, downtown Pittsburgh will open its doors to you, literally. This is your chance to see the insides of a diverse collection of buildings and some of the really cool spaces you may or may not have heard about, driven or walked past, but have never been inside to explore and experience. This is an off-the-beaten-path sort of tour experience. We welcome curiosity.” said Bonnie Baxter, founder of Doors Open Pittsburgh.

Doors Open Pittsburgh will include at least 40 buildings and attendees will be provided self-guided or semi-guided access, depending on the building and the space. Attendees choose which buildings, or spaces, they want to visit throughout the weekend.

No tickets, and no reservations are necessary. Visit www.doorsopenpgh.org to learn more about the event, the buildings featured and to register to volunteer or to donate to a successful event.
The Highland Park Community Council has been sponsoring a tour of Fulton PreK-5 for several years to introduce families to all the positive things happening there. However, the neighborhood school for students living west of Negley in Highland Park is Sunnyside PreK-8 in Stanton Heights. To better support both schools, the HPCC has joined forces with Lawrenceville United and the Stanton Heights Neighborhood Association to sponsor a tour of Sunnyside PreK-8 for the first time this year.

Located in the heart of Highland Park, Fulton K-5 is an award winning neighborhood school featuring a French magnet program. Fulton educators aim to stretch their students’ minds through higher level and critical thinking skills. Identified K-5 gifted and talented students receive enrichment during morning group time with the gifted and talented teacher. This period is used to develop and extend skills, and these students are encouraged to participate in the pre-algebra club. French is taught in grades K-5 at Pittsburgh Fulton. All children in K-1 get an exposure to the French language-through movement, songs, poetry, basic vocabulary and simple greetings. Beginning in second grade, students who have officially enrolled in the French Magnet program receive direct classroom instruction. Basic French vocabulary is taught and expanded into sight words, sentences and simple paragraphs. Emphasis is on developing oral and auditory language skills (speaking and listening). Students graduating from the French magnet program are guaranteed acceptance into the Obama Academy 6-12.

Sunnyside PreK-8 is a neighborhood school for students living in Upper Lawrenceville, Stanton Heights, Morningside and for students living west of Negley in Highland Park and East Liberty. Based on extraordinary student achievement gains, Sunnyside has earned the distinguished award of being a STAR school. Sunnyside provides a safe, healthy and accepting environment where students are encouraged by the school and community to reach their highest levels of achievement. Sunnyside offers an array of opportunities for students including world drumming, keyboarding and instrumental music. They also have a partnership with the Pittsburgh Ballet which provides creative movement classes for younger students. The 5th grade students learn ballroom dancing and compete. The school offers intramurals for students in grades 4 and 5 and athletic teams for grades 6-8 including: soccer, cross-country, baseball, volleyball and basketball. Sunnyside students have the opportunity to participate in various clubs such as ceramic arts, archery, electronics, wellness, culture, and girl talk, during activity periods. An after school YMCA Program is available for students until 6pm Monday-Friday.

The Sunnyside Tour will take place on Thursday, October 6th at 9am. Sunnyside is located at 4801 Stanton Avenue; contact 412-665-2040 for more information. The Fulton tour will take place on Friday, October 7th at 9:00am. Fulton is located at 5799 Hampton Street; contact 412-665-4590 for more information. Prospective parents are encouraged to attend, but the general public is welcome as well. Pittsburgh Public School graduates may be eligible for up to $40,000 in Pittsburgh Promise scholarship money for in-state tuition at public or private colleges or at trade schools. Visit discoverpps.org for more information.
